“ Fred and Marie were the warmest people I knew. They had the largest of hearts. My grandpa Claude Hadwiger and Fred use to do everything needed for maintenance at Sacred Heart. Once, they smuggled one of the statues from the outdoor Christmas Nativity set into the priest's bed as a joke. My grandma Edith Hadwiger cherished their friendship after Claude died. I cherished them too. My heart goes to the family.

“ We are sorry to hear about Fred. Both Fred and Marie were such a special couple to us. When I first came to Northwestern, they were the first people I met through church. They just kind of took me under their wing as part of the Isenbart clan. The friendship continued throughout both of their lives.

I will always remember the night Fred showed up to play church league volleyball. Being a generation or two older than the rest of us, Fred moved a little bit slower than the rest on the team. After that one evening, he cut his volleyball career short and decided to just watch instead! He mentioned that night for years to come. Isenbart family, you were so blessed to have a great mom and dad and large family to share all your memories. We will miss him tremendously. Praying for all!
