“ Terri, I remember when all our boys were little, they were allowed to go down the alley in the block between our houses to play at each other's house. I'm sure they went down Flynn once in a while, even though they weren't supposed to! In Luke's adult life he used to stop by my flower shop when he was passing thru town just to say hi. I'll miss him popping in unexpectedly. He was a good young man. You did a great job raising him.
